The diagram illustrates the experimental setup for studying the effect of reactant concentration on reaction rate. It shows a reaction vessel where reactants A and B are mixed. The concentration of A is denoted as [A] and the concentration of B as [B]. The rate of reaction is denoted as r. A graph shows the relationship between the rate of reaction (r) and the concentration of reactants [A] and [B]. The graph indicates that the rate of reaction increases with the concentration of reactants.

Banking's loss is little kids' gain

By Margie Alarcon-Santos

MANILA, Philippines — The Philippine National Bank (PNB) has announced that it will be selling its stake in the PNB Foundation, a non-profit organization that provides financial literacy and microfinance services to low-income Filipinos. The sale is part of the bank's strategy to focus on its core banking business and to improve its financial performance.

The PNB Foundation, which was established in 1990, has a long history of providing financial literacy and microfinance services to low-income Filipinos. It has a network of over 10,000 branches across the country, serving more than 10 million clients. The foundation's services include financial literacy training, microloans, and savings programs.

The PNB Foundation's services are designed to help low-income Filipinos improve their financial situation and achieve their dreams. The foundation's financial literacy training programs teach clients how to manage their money, save, and borrow responsibly. Its microfinance services provide clients with access to capital and financial services that they need to start and grow their businesses.
